

Celeb-spotting in Miami

From famous to famous-for-no-reason, Miami got a dose of the celeb set both A-list and D-list this past week

GLORY DAYS: If you're looking to land yourself a former athlete, head over to Sole. The South Florida spot is turning out to be quite the pro-player place on Sunday afternoons. A few weeks ago former b-baller Dennis Rodman behaved like a grown-up at the hotel. And this past week former New York Jets linebacker Marvin Jones, former Cincinnati Bengals running back Rudi Johnson and former New York Giants wide receiver Plaxico Burress made a date of hanging out poolside at the Recoup Sundays party. The drinks were flowing and the pops were flashing, as the athletes made it a point to pose whenever someone asked for a pic. With all the players in the mix, we wouldn't be surprised if a Gatorade-flavored alcoholic beverage shows up on the menu in the very near future.