Thong wrong

STACY London should have given her outfit a second look on Sunday. The host of TLC's "What Not to Wear" stopped into Butter-milk Channel in Carroll Gardens to say hi to friends who were having brunch — and, according to our spy, "Her thong [underwear] was hanging out of her pants and a tag was sticking out from the thong." Guests were staring at London, who fixes wardrobes of women all over. London's agent didn't return calls and e-mails.

Gone fishing

HOWELL Raines — ousted from the New York Times six years ago after the Jayson Blair scandal — couldn't care less about big-city journalism these days, and sounds more and more like a country hick. "I'm keen to get started on the next cycle of matchless days on streams," gushes the former Times executive editor about his obsession with fly fishing in Garden & Gun magazine. "I would be lying if I said I'm not going to make some time for crappie jigging this year, maybe several days. I know some damn good spots."

Howard Stern keeps it clean

HOWARD Stern likes to talk trash, but not see it. The King of All Media and his wife, Beth Ostrosky, "have gotten into the habit of taking early-morning weekend walks along Hamptons beaches, picking up garbage left behind by their less conscientious neighbors," a source tells us. The couple's environmental crusade is also being filmed for a segment on Beth's upcoming show on Plum TV.

Sightings

ANDRE Harrell, DJ Cassidy and Richie Akiva hosting an impromptu Michael Jackson tribute party at 10Oak, where Cassidy spun five hours of Jackson hits and Robin Thicke sang a cappella version of "Human Nature" ... DENIS Rodman insisting on paying his entire bill at Solé on the Ocean in Miami even though the club offered to comp him.

SHAWN RESNOU/OUTLINE

Denzel Washington and his wife, Paulette, read Monday's Post coverage of Michael Jackson while aboard a luxury yacht in Italy.
